The front and back will overlap at the ribbed shoulder with the buttonholed front section on top of the back section. When stitches are picked up, they will be picked up through both layers where they overlap.

With the right sides facing, you may want to pin the overlapped section together. Start on the back section where the shaping stops and pick up 36 (36, 38, 38, 40) stitches, stopping on the front section before the shaping starts.

Next row: S1, purl to end, pick up 1 stitch (in the 1st decrease row). Turn. [37 (37, 39, 39, 41) stitches]

Next row: S1, knit to end, pick up 1 stitch (in the 3 stitches bound off to start the row). Turn. [48 (48, 50, 50, 52) stitches]

Add a stitch marker and join the round, dividing the stitches evenly over 4 double pointed needles. Knit until sleeve measures 1 inch from the underarm join.

With CC, knit 2 rounds.

With MC, knit 1 round.

Change to US#2/2.75mm double pointed needles and work K2, P2 ribbing for 5 rounds. Use a stretchy bind off.

A good stretchy bind off for this is to K2, slip stitches back to left hand needle and knit through the back loop of both stitches. Then K1, slip both stitches (1 from 1st bind off stitch and the stitch you've just knitted) onto the left hand needle and knit through the back loop of both stitches. Continue like this all the way around.

Cut yarn and weave in the ends.

Do the same for the other sleeve, making sure the shoulder with the buttonholes is layered on top of the other.
